About: The city of Greenwood Village is a suburb of the Denver-Aurora metropolitan area. It is located in Arapahoe County.

Located just south of Denver, Greenwood Village was first settled around 1860, when farms and orchards sprang up after gold was discovered at the meeting point of Cherry Creek and the South Platte River. In the 1900s the city was considered a farming community, but today hosts part of the Denver Technical Center. Incorporated in 1950, Greenwood Village maintains an open feel with more than 300 acres of parks, 100 acres of undeveloped open space and a trail system which provides 40 miles of scenic walking and biking areas.

Greenwood Village hosts the Denver Technological Center, "DTC", the home base for many technology-oriented companies in the Denver Metro area. Commuters into the Tech Center raise Greenwood Village's daytime population from around 13,000 to more than 70,000 people. More local history of the Greenwood area is available here .

Greenwood Village is part of the Cherry Creek School District.
