

September 4th, 2017 – Happy Labor Day

History of Labor Day

Date when celebrated: Always the first Monday in September

Labor Day was created in honor of the worker. This holiday is dedicated to all people that get up in the morning and work hard each and everyday to better our communities. We here at Osgood Team Real Estate recognize hard work and that it takes people from every walk of life to keep our communities together. From big business, to small businesses, teachers, police, nurses, doctors and everyone in between this holiday is for you.

Labor Day is also viewed as the official end of summer. While the Fall Equinox is still a couple of weeks away, kids go back to school and summer vacations are over. Most pools close too so be sure to enjoy them this weekend while they're still open.

Osgood Team is never too busy for your referrals.